"DEATH LOVES A SHINING MARK"

William Spencer Is Suddenly Overtaken by an Angel of Death.

Venerable William Spencer, one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Breathitt county, died suddenly at his home, near Oakdale, Saturday, October 19, 1907. His death was a shock to the entire community and was unexpected, as he had been in good health for some time. His death was due to heart failure. His remains were brought to Jackson Monday and interred in the Sewell grave yard amid the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. The funeral services were conducted at the grave (the Baptist church, of which he was a member, being too small), by Rev. W. H. Setzer, pastor of the Jackson Baptist church, assisted by Rev. W. W. Green, pastor of the Methodist church.

The floral tributes were brought by the following:

Uncle Bill Spencer, as he was commonly called, was loved and respected by all who knew him as being a good man and a good citizen and his loss will be keenly felt by the community. He was a native of Breathitt county, where he resided until 1882, when he moved to Montgomery county, then going to Clark county, where he lived three years. His early associations and the love of his mountain people drew him back to Breathitt county and he came back in 1897 to spend the remainder of his life. Since his return he served four years as jailer of the county.

He was born March 8, 1830, and was 78 years old at the time of his death. He was a son of Jesse Spencer, of Virginia, who came to Kentucky about the time of his settlement, and lived here until his death, about 1863. Mr. Spencer's boyhood days were spent on a farm and among the hills, with his boy associates, the Souths, Hagins, Copes, Cockrills, Sewells and others. He was fond of fishing and hunting; game being plentiful then. During his hunting days he killed a large panther on Stray Branch, not more than three miles from Jackson, the skin of which he presented to his old friend, J. W. South, who lived here at that time.

He was married in 1853 to Miss Louisa M. Britton, a daughter of Chadwell Britton, of Lee county, Virginia, whose father, James Britton, came from England with five brothers, all of whom settled in different parts of Kentucky at an early date, James settling where the city of Maysville now stands, and where Chadwell was born.

Mr. Spencer is survived by his wife and ten children, all of whom attended the funeral, viz:

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sewell, Jackson; Mrs. H. C. Needham, Booneville; Mr. and Mrs. William Spencer, Jr., Emerson, Georgia; Mr. and Mrs. George D. Spencer, Oakdale; Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Wilson, Mt. Sterling; Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Spencer, Oakdale; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Spencer, Frankfort; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Spencer, Winchester; Misses Nancy and Eliza Spencer, Oakdale; Samuel Jett, of Winchester, who married his daughter, Minerva, (deceased) and his family.

Mr. Spencer had a large number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren, most of whom were present.

We extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved family in their loss. May the Great All-Father sustain them and bear them up in their deep grief until they feel that death is but separation, that must come in all in nature's course, and that only makes the cherished one and the future, over which the veil of mortality is drawn for a brief sojourn in a hope and cheer in a faith that reaches beyond time and takes hold upon eternity.

May God's bright angels guard "Uncle Bill's" slumbers.

Lost Creek.

To the public in and about Lost Creek, we wish in this way now to correct some false statements made by some about the work which we are attempting to do here.

First, It is reported that all scholars who come to our school must study the Bible and Brethren doctrine. This is absolutely false; no one will be compelled to study the Bible. It will be optional.

Secondly, It is reported by a certain party that our Bibles are not like theirs, and not the regular, good old Bibles our fathers and forefathers used. This is absolutely false, and to this falsehood we make this proposition: Any one who will give a satisfactory guarantee that they will return the Bible sent or taken away, we will give you the privilege to come into our home and examine our library, take any Bible you may find there, send it to any publishing house, or any minister of any denomination who has done any special reading on the history of the Bible, and if they don't pronounce it the regular, genuine Bible, "the good old Bible that our fathers and forefathers used," then we will quit our work.

We are the owners of the school, and we are not going to be forced to accept our proposition and investigate our Bibles, or forever be quiet about our Bibles. But now why quibble about nothing. Let us unitedly put our shoulders against the gospel wheel and all push together, that the stronghold of Satan may be the quickest torn down.

The above reports were really not worth noticing, and would not have been had we not been informed that some, not knowing the truth, were believing the falsehoods. Again, urging that we spread the truth through our country, and lend a hand in helping to build up instead of tearing down, I am, yours for better things,

G. E. DRUSHAL.

Save This Anyway.

Here is a simple home-made mixture as given by an eminent authority of Kidney diseases, who makes the statement in a New York daily newspaper, that it will relieve almost any case of Kidney trouble if taken before the stage of Bright's disease. He states that such symptoms as lame back, pain in the side, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night; painful and discolored urination, are readily overcome. Here is the recipe: try it!

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

A well-known druggist here in town is authority that these ingredients are all harmless and easily mixed at home by shaking well in a bottle. This mixture has a peculiar healing and soothing effect upon the entire Kidney and Urinary structure, and often overcomes the worst forms of Rheumatism in just a little while. This mixture is said to remove all blood disorders and cure the Rheumatism by forcing the Kidneys to filter and strain from the blood and system all uric acid and foul, decomposed waste matter, which cause these afflictions. Try it if you aren't well. Save the prescription.

THE BRIDGE WHIST PARTY.

Always Invite More Guests Than You Really Expect.

In arranging for a bridge party you should always invite several more than you really expect, so that if all cannot come you will still have a sufficient number to make up several tables.

In the drawing room have the card tables placed, with four chairs at every table, and at each table have two packs of cards, two score cards and two pencils with rubbers.

You might place a small dish of bonbons in the center of each table. At an evening affair you might also have some light punch served during the game.

Be very careful in placing the players, so as to have congenial persons together if possible. Write the name of each player on a small plain or fancy card and be careful to put the correct ones at each table so that there may be no mistake as to who will play there.

Have a prize for each table. If it is to be an afternoon affair and only women, choose your prizes accordingly. If it is to be in the evening it would be wise to make your choice of articles such as can be used by both women and men.

For an afternoon bridge party have refreshments served at 3:30 o'clock. A table may be placed at the end of the drawing room, or your guests may be asked to go into the dining room.

Serve small, thin sandwiches, toasted and buttered, English muffins, tea, chocolate, a frappe of some kind, fancy cakes, bonbons and salted nuts.

For an evening affair let supper be served at 11. Have it served on the card tables immediately after you have finished playing or on small tables already set in the dining room. If you have the former you will require several assistants for your butler or your waitress.

Serve tomatoes cut in halves and filled with chopped olives and nuts with mayonnaise dressing, with this toasted biscuit spread with anchovy paste; then jellied consommé, after which have creamed oysters or lobster cutlets.

Then serve squabs on toast with French peas, or you may omit cold chicken or hot bird of some kind with a salad of celery and mayonnaise.

Toasted biscuit and small balls of sweetened cheese mixed with a small portion of cayenne pepper and half an English walnut placed on either side of the cheese may also be served.

The best way to make the card designs for each table is to have a small card with the name of the player and the name of the table, and place it on the table.

OYSTER SHORTCAKE.

A Delicious Way to Serve the Popular Bivalve.

There is no more unique and delicious way of preparing oysters than the following, says the Delicatessen for September:

Make a soft, smooth shortcake dough with baking powder, using milk instead of water. Bake in thinner layers than you would for the regular fruit shortcake and split and butter generously as soon as baked. While the cake is baking add the liquor that you have drained from a quart of oysters, and in another saucepan heat a cupful of milk and half a cupful of cream. Just as this mixture begins to boil add a tablespoonful of butter and a tablespoonful of flour that have previously been rubbed together and stir until it becomes smooth and thick. Now, turn the scalding oyster liquor into it, having skinned it carefully, add a tablespoonful of butter, some salt and pepper and finally the oysters. Let them stay cooking a few minutes only, then remove them, cover the layers of shortcake with them, place the two layers together, one on top of the other, and pour the hot sauce over all. Serve immediately, that it may have no time in which to cool.

Oatmeal Cleans Skin.

Many young people are annoyed by the appearance of pimples and slight skin eruptions, which are disfiguring, if not serious. Our grandmothers used to dose their young folks with some of the most horrible concoctions "to clean the blood."

Many of these remedies seem out of the question entirely with us, but some of them were efficacious and simple. One of these last mentioned is oatmeal water. To make it put a heaping tablespoonful of fine oatmeal into a tumbler of cold water. Allow it to stand all night, and in the morning stir it up well. Let the thickest part settle again and then drink the clear part. This should be continued for two or three weeks, and it will clean the complexion remarkably.

Caramel Junket.

Stir two level tablespoonfuls of sugar over the fire until the sugar is dissolved and becomes a rich caramel color. Add three or four tablespoonfuls of water and let cook to a thick sirup.

CARAMEL JUNKET WITH WHIPPED CREAM. Add the sirup, a tablespoonful of sugar and a few grains of salt to a cup of milk and heat to 90 degrees F.; then add one-fourth of a junket tablet. Serve with whipped cream on top of each glass.

WHY VOTE THE DEMO. WHILE THE PRESENT AND COOL HEADS TICKET?

One appeal after another has been made to the Democrats who have been driven from their party, to return to it and vote the Democratic ticket in November. This is but another "Song of the Siren," the invitation of the spider to the fly to walk into its parlor. Everything is not Democratic because it is so labeled. Democracy is a government by the people, and not only a government by the people but of the people and for the people. It follows then that whosoever believes in Democratic principles, favor that form of government in which the people at large and not a favored few select the officers who administer the affairs of government. They believe that an office is a public trust confided to a public servant, and not a bounty bestowed upon its holder; and this is the true theory of government. No government is either safe or sane that does not spring from the people, the governed, and does not have their confidence and support. Anarchy begins where law ends, and the law ends where the people believe that those who administer it do not hold their commissions from the people, the sovereigns.

Why the revolt in the Democratic party? Why are the affairs of Breathitt county administered by Republicans? Simply because those in control of the party machinery have turned deaf ears to the voice of the people, and have built up an oligarchy and named it Democracy.

Under our electorate system it is almost impossible to elect a candidate on an independent ticket. His name must be under the device of one of the dominant parties, otherwise it is lost sight of in the frenzy of heated elections.

Four years ago there was a vacancy in the office of circuit court clerk in this county. The Democratic committee as now constituted, called a convention to be held by the Democrats in the various precincts in the county to select delegates to attend a delegated convention to be held at Jackson to nominate a candidate for this office. The Democrats of this county met in their respective precincts on the day designated and selected their delegates to meet at Jackson and nominate the candidate. The chairman of the county as well as all the members of the committee were appointed delegates from their respective precincts to attend this convention with instructions for whom to vote. But when this committee met it found that one candidate had carried enough precincts to insure his nomination. Then to thwart the will of the people as expressed, this chairman and these members of the committee, all of whom were delegates to this convention refused to hold a convention, but declared that it was their purpose, in fact their office to constitute themselves a comparing board and to hear reports, rumor from the county as to the number who participated in the precinct mass meetings between these two candidates. The result was that the one whom the people chose according to the call was denied the nomination, and the one the people rejected was given the place on the ballot.

At the same time there was a vacancy in the office of sheriff and jailer. There was no pretense made to nominate a candidate for either of these offices, in fact there was a refusal on the part of the committee to make provisions for the nomination of a candidate for either of these offices yet the name of a candidate for each of these offices was given a place upon the ticket. The party emblem was appropriated by the committee without the knowledge or consent, and we might say against the will of the rank and file of the party.

The famous midnight convention of two years ago is still too fresh in the minds of our readers. The party's emblem was again appropriated, the cry of the people was ignored, their will for the time set at naught. The people refused to submit to this outrage. They arose as one man against this sacrilege, this wrong, this evil, and again last fall in the Beckham-McCreary primary even more flagrant methods were used against Senator McCreary. In Frozen precinct 42 ballots were voted for Gov. Beckham by one man after the polls had closed.

In the two precincts on Quick sand and two on Troublesome creek, comprising about one third of the county, every ballot sold for McCreary. No ballots were prepared and no ballots nor ballot boxes were sent. In Cane Creek precinct they voted publicly on a pile of cross ties, other similar methods were used in various other precincts in the county too numerous to mention. The same men are still in charge of the Democratic party, the same committee still governs; they have made no reform; they make no promises, they add insult to your injuries by saying in effect we have chastised you with whips, but we will chastise you with scorpions; and help yourself if you can. And yet there is going up and down a little gang of tin horn politicians crying peace, harmony. From our point we see no peace coming from such a source, and we bitterly point to it with the finger of scorn, and earnestly ask the voters of the State and of Breathitt county to show their contempt by going to the polls November the 5th, and cast their ballots against the gang.

OUR FUTURE.

Above the din of party strife and the turmoil of factional wrangle there can be seen the promise of a better day for Breathitt county. True enough, our material progress has been somewhat retarded by the differences that have arisen between our people and it will require years to eradicate these evils, local disturbances have caused odium to attach to the name of our section and its people and this can only be removed by united effort on the part of our better citizenship, but we are to be congratulated upon the fact that we have turned our face toward the light and have caught the step in material advancement in upward progress. What might seem a matter of little concern to the outside world in our work of reformation, appears to us to be worthy of great commendation, and we are fully able to appreciate and enjoy our every step toward the right, and while we have not yet perfected our reformation nor fully reinstated our laws, we can safely say that there is a decided tendency for the better and a growing regard for law and order.

The laws of our land are not made to restrain the law-abiding, but the lawless, and we are to have liberty through laws and laws for liberty, but it is necessary that the good citizens contribute something in vigilance and watchfulness in guarding the sacredness of the law and upholding its majesty. It is through regard for the laws that we preserve the sacred rights of our homes, the inalienable blessings of citizenship, and the right to defend our lives, our property and our honor. It is through regard for the laws that we stimulate the public conscience in right thinking and right acting, and enable the citizens of a community to accomplish that which is right in the matters of government; that we enlighten the public mind in the true grandeur of living and build and mould a substantial and magnificent citizenship, and that we make sure and certain our proper position as a community in the great organization of human society.

When these things are accomplished, when we remove the hatred and malice and envy, when all wrongs are righted and justice and equanimity prevails, when we censure and punish crime and rebuke and restrain the criminal, then will our material advancement really begin and the full dawn of a better day break in upon us.

H. V. McChesney, Secretary of State, made a speech here Saturday. He being one of the machine gang, of course attempted to justify the acts of the machine. But he will find that the people of Breathitt county are not so easily fooled by fallacious arguments, as he seemed to think. They are tired of oppression and we believe a large majority of them will register their disapproval by voting the machine out of power on November 5th.

The machine gang appears to be so hard up that they have imported a man from Alabama to go over the State and talk about the negro and other questions that have been dead for years. The question is not an issue in the State.

We believe the people of the State are going to do to the State gang just what the people of Breathitt county did to the county gang—turn them out. Then, and not till then, can the Democratic party be reorganized.

Only one claim has been allowed against the dog tax, while 1,870 people have been taxed for that purpose. 1,870 to 1 is the ratio applicable to the dog tax.

Turn the gang out and take a look at the books.

Is there anything left to tax except the poor old tom cat?

A Plea for Assistance.

FRANKFORT, KY., Oct. 21.

EDITOR NEWS:—Owing to the fact that I have been confined in the State penitentiary at Frankfort, for nearly three years, although I have been treated with all the respect that a man condemned to stripes could ask, but having a young wife and babies to worry over, and knowing the helpless condition of a woman when she is turned out in the world to stem the tide of life alone, and the condition of my mother and the prosecution I had to encounter, being tried away from home and friends and where justice was ignored, and being forced to stay confined three years at hard labor, it has broken me down.

I am innocent of the disgraceful charge for which I was convicted. My health is bad and I will ask my kindred and friends to help me in any way that they can so that I will be able to make the remaining eight months which I have to serve. I am a young man, scarcely out of my teens, and this is my first trouble. I have a good record as a prisoner and it can be shown to any and all to whom it may concern by applying to the prison mission at Frankfort.

I am over-anxious to be liberated as early as possible, and will ask those who are interested to give my case their most sincere and careful attention.

Respectfully,
GUITREAU HOWARD.

LAW AND ORDER Prevails in James Muir's Camp, Near Robbins.

EDITOR NEWS:—I was called to James Muir's camp, on L. Parrott's farm, near Robbins, to make pictures last Friday and Saturday, and during stay I found it to be one of the most law-abiding places in the county, where peace and happiness prevail.

On Sunday morning, Elder J. D. Hunter preached an interesting sermon to a large audience to the satisfaction of the entire congregation.

Mr. Muir has had a large school house built and a nice fence erected around. He has also employed a teacher to instruct the scholars. The upper rooms are used by the Juniors and the lower floor is used for school purposes. If the managers of other camps would follow Mr. Muir's example they would have no trouble to employ the best of labor.

G. B. Maloney, the superintendent, is conducting the camp on a high moral plane.

The Juniors have a large order there and the Daughter's of America have a lodge in connection with the Juniors.

Mr. Muir has a rule that if any of his men get drunk or discharge firearms while in his employ he is immediately discharged and not allowed to resume his work.

What a blessing it would be if all persons employed labor were so constructed by one of the humbly.

C. Hadden keeps his meats on ice, winter as well as summer. That's why he can give you such good satisfaction.

Curt Jett Joins Church.

During religious exercises conducted at the Frankfort penitentiary Sunday by the Rev. C. R. Hudson, Curt Jett, who is serving a life term for the murder of J. B. Marcum, of Jackson, and one of the most noted prisoners in the institution, went forward and joined the church. Jett has shown a religious inclination for several weeks, and has been studying the Scriptures. Upon entering the prison Jett was at times unruly, but has made an exceptionally good prisoner recently.

Fresh pork sausage every day. My own make. C. HADDEN.

Frozen Creek.

John Wadkins has a large fat cow he wants to sell.

Mrs. Coon Banks is somewhat improved and it is now thought that she will recover.

We are sorry to know that Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Day are going to locate in the far west.

We are still in hopes that Willson and the whole State ticket will be elected and enough representatives to defeat Beckham.

The War Creek school is progressing nicely and the attendance is good. The children are learning rapidly under Mrs. Maude Cundiff, the teacher.

Mt. Sterling Court.

Monday being October court day at Mt. Sterling there was a very large crowd in town and between 8,000 and 10,000 cattle were on the market. The quality was about as good as usual run, and demand was heavy, although the price was 25 cents off from last court day. One thousand pound steers brought $4.40; yearlings, from 4 cents to 4 1/4 cents; heifers, 3 to 3 3/4 cents; bulls, from 2 1/2 cents to 3 1/4 cents; cows, 2 cents to 3 cents; canners, from 1 1/2 cents to 1 3/4 cents. The town was full of suckling mules and over a hundred were sold. Small mules brought $45 to $50; good ones, $75 to $90; extra good ones, $100 to $110. No big mules were sold and only a few were offered for sale. There were a number of horses sold at from $100 to $175, but no extra nice ones were on the market.

Our Seventh Year.

The Breathitt County News enters upon its seventh year with this issue. We desire to thank our many friends and subscribers for the liberal patronage they have given us and hope to continue to stand for the interests of the people and for the right against the machine and for everything it believes to be wrong, no matter from what source it may come. It has not been a money maker, but if it helps the people of Breathitt county and Eastern Kentucky we will be satisfied. Again we thank you.

I will have in this week everything that's fresh and new in the grocery line. GREEN HADDIX.

The Special Meetings.

The special services at the Christian church begun as announced on last Sunday. It is attested by all who hear him that Rev. Coker is a forceful and earnest preacher of the word of God. The attendance during the week has been good and the prospects are bright for a great meeting. Now is an excellent time to think about the welfare of the soul. The meeting will continue over next Sunday.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The court was engaged with the Green Wadkins trial until Wednesday noon, when it was given to the jury. The case was argued for the defense by attorneys Patton, Cope and Redwine, and for the prosecution by attorneys Napier, Blanton and Adams. No verdict has been returned as we go to press.

The case against Walter R. Day, charged with obtaining money under false pretense from Zerilda Cope was next taken up by Special Judge Morris, of New Castle, which was given to the jury Thursday afternoon, but that jury has also failed to return a verdict as we go to press.

The case against Berry Turner, for the killing of Ed Baker, was next taken up by the regular judge, which trial has not been concluded.

The Grand Jury adjourned Tuesday, after returning 53 indictments, mostly for misdemeanors. This is the smallest number returned by any regular Grand Jury of this county for years.

T. P. Cole is building a residence on the heights.

Don't Like the West.

Dr. H. H. Howard, of Muscogee, Tex., is here attending court. He is not very favorably impressed with that country and says he is going to move back home right away.

Capt. Collins Sells Out.

Capt. H. Collins has sold his restaurant and grocery store, in the Charles Terry building, to Archie Cope. Mr. Cope has moved his stock which he had on Broadway to the Terry building and will continue the business at Capt. Collins' old stand.

Marriage Licenses.

Benj. Vires and Mrs. Lucinda Combs, both of Lost Creek.
Seldon Hargis and Miss Margaret Crawford, both of Jackson.
John Carroll and Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, both of Malaga.

Skating Rink Opening.

The skating rink, which has been under way of construction for some time, was opened to the public last Saturday night. There was a very large crowd at the opening, from Jackson and vicinity, also there were some forty or fifty come up from Beattyville and Lee county to be present. Mr. Hammons, the owner, is very much pleased as to the enthusiasm which is being manifested.

C. Hadden can furnish you steak at 10 and 12¢ and roasts at from 4 to 12¢.

Dr. J. P. Boggs has moved to Brakes, New Mexico, and has been appointed postmaster at that place.

James L. Stidham left Thursday for Los Angeles California, to visit his brother. He will be absent several weeks. He has authorized G. B. Smith to collect all taxes and other dues to the town.

McChesney while here Saturday did not deny or explain the charge Dr. Bruner made against him a few days ago at Frankfort, that he had kept his sister-in-law on the pay roll at a cost to the State of $50 to $75 per month for the past seventeen months, although she had been away from Frankfort at school for the past seven months. We do not know whether the charge is true or false, but McChesney had so many other more important charges to explain that we ought to excuse him for this.

I wish to say to my friends in Breathitt and the surrounding counties that my wife is recovering her health. She has gained twenty pounds since coming to Albuquerque. This is a fine place for healthseekers, but want to tell all the readers of the Breathitt County News that are enjoying good health to stay in old Kentucky if they want to make money. ## HANS GETS A PHONE.

The German Cobbler Tries to Make Business Grow.

PEOPLE WORK GRAFT ON HIM

They Call Up Friends and Forget to Pay—Cressed Wires Make Him Mad, and He Has the Thing Jerked Out of His Shop.

Copyright, 1907, by P. C. Eastment. I peepness vhas so poor dot I don't do nothings but smoke my pipe, and dot drug store mums comes in and looks around and says:

"Hans, how vhas all dis? Where vhas all der customers?"

"Nopody comes around shust now," I says.

"Den you must bring 'em around. If you don't haf peesness you must make peesness. Don't you see somedopy in my store all der time?"

"But can I bring a man here if he don't want some repairs?"

"Sure. You must put a telephone in here. Nopody can do peesness today

"YELL AT HIM AND SCARE HIM AWAY FROM DER DOOR."

mitout a telephone. Nopody vill walk a mile if he can use a telephone. It was a convenience and a sign of prosperity. My trade falls off $20 a week if I don't haf a telephone."

I think der matter over for three days and den I haf a telephone put in. But man he shows me how to ring oop and speak into her, and I sit down and wait for der bell to ring. Pooty queek der vhas a finkle and I says:

"Hello, who you vhas?"

"Say," says somedopy to me, "why don't you come oop last night as you agreed? I told you dot my bulldog gets a cobblestone in his eye, and you says you vill be right oop and fix it. Don't you know you vhas a liar by some docters?"

"At dis moment I vhas a dog doctor, but you can't doctor no more dogs for dis."

"I vhas a dog, again."

"Shust get sit down to wonder if I can get dot stone out of his eye when der bell rings again."

"Hello, who you vhas?"

"Der vhas Mrs. Brown. Say, doctor, what you coming to see my husband dis afternoon? I belief he vhas worse dan yesterday. He vhas swearing all der time. He says if der baby don't keep quiet he vill knock his head off. Can't you hurry oop a leeble?"

"You haf make some mistakes," I says.

"Isn't dis the doctor?"

"No, dis vhas Hans der cobbler."

"What? What? Do you mean to tell me dot a cobbler has a telephone in his shop?"

"It vhas so, ma'am, and if you haf some shoes to be fixed oop I—"

"Go avhay, sir—go avhay! You vhas a bad, bad man. If you ever dare to answer me again my husband shall back your old cobbler shop all to smash."

I don't like it at all. I vhas going over to see der druggist and ask him what vhas wrong mit der telephone when somedopy rings me oop like a doot-bell and says hello sixteen times before I can answer. Den he says:

"Hello, Hans! Vhas der oop?"

"Yes; dot vhas me."

"I heard you haf got a telephone in, but hardly believed it. I vhas glad to see you getting along so well. Say, Hans."

"Yes."

"I have got five pairs of shoes to be fixed oop."

"Good."

"But I shall send 'em all to some dago cobbler, for you don't know enough to pound sand!"

Der makes me mad, and I like to talk, but he shuts me off before I can call him a liar. Den a man walks in and says:

"Cobbler, I see you haf a telephone here."

"Yes, sir."

"Der telephone vhas a great invention—a great invention. I stand right here and speak to a man three miles avhay. Does it seem possible? How did we used to do when we had no telephones. Hello, Jim! Vhas dot you?"

"She vhas."

"What! Jim, I like to tell you dot Sarah vhas married last night?"

"You don't say so?"

"Und you vhas left out in some colds. Yea, she vhas married to a man from Troy."

"Where vhas you speaking to me from?" says Jim.

"Vha, from a cobbler shop run by an old Doothechnaus on Court street, and I'll beat him out of the 10 cents. Thank der cobbler shop hafing a telephone! Vheli, goodbye. Sorry that Sarah threw you down."

Threatens a Row.

"Look here," I says to dot man, "if you don't pay der 10 cents we have some row."

"To, in, old mans," he says, and he puts a pat on der shoulder and walks out. Dot makes me mad, and I goes by der telephone book and hunts oop a name and rings oop.

"Yes. What is it?" somedopy asks.

"Vhas dot Alderman Green's wife?"

"Yes. Vhas wanted?"

"Who vhas dot talking to me?" she says in a mad voice.

"It vhas Hans, der cobbler. I make repairs to your shoes cheaper dan anybody else. I haf an uncle who vhas a tanner, a nephew who makes shoe pegs and a brudder-in-law who vhas in der wax and cement peesness, and so I haf advantages over any other cobbler. Can I do some peesness mit you today?"

Den dot woman speaks to me over der wire. She says I vhas a horse thief. She calls me a villain. She wants to put me in jail for a year. I can hear her stamp her foot and stomp oop and down ash she talks, and by und by I get so scared dot I hang oop der receiver and go across der street for a glass of cold beer. When I comes back dot bell vhas ringing to beat der band, and I goes und says:

"Vheli, what you want of me?"

"It vhas dot Hans, der cobbler?" says some one.

"It vhas."

"Vhas he der old Doothechnaus dot we read about in der papers?"

"He vhas."

"With a squint to his left eye and a limp in his right leg?"

"Yes, but why do you talk to me dot vhay?"

"Because I vhas your friend und because I like to see you get along. You want work to do, don't you?"

"Of course."

"Vheli, a man has just entered a saloon near here who ought to have half speck on his shoes. If you come und speak to him you can probably get der job, but you must hurry oop."

"Where vhas you?" I says.

"Three miles avhay. Hire an auto und come at once."

All Telephones the Same.

Vheli, it vhas shust dot vhay for three days. More ash ten people use my telephone und don't pay, und more ash twenty people call me oop und make fun of me. I tell der druggist all about it, but he says it vhas so mit all telephones. By und by it would be all right und nopody would make mistakes. I can't believe him, however. For two hours I stand dere und call oop people as hard ash I can, und when dey ask what vhas wrong I says:

"Vhas your name Tom Collins, und vhas you a sausage maker?"

"No. Of course not."

"Den you please go to Texas!"

Und den I tells dot telephone man to jerk her out by der roots und throw her in der river, und when der druggist comes around to see how peesness vhas I yell at him und scare him avay from der door.

Chalking Up a Race.

Seen at Big State Fairs.

Reviewing the cattle section of the huge Minnesota state fair, the giant exponent of the great northwest, the Breeder's Gazette, Chicago, from which the cut is reproduced, includes the following in its running comment:

The awards in the class of aged Shorthorn bulls scattered this fair's money and commendation from Kentucky to North Dakota. A contest that will prove memorable in Shorthorn history was waged in this spacious and well appointed arena.

Most of the strong herds at Iowa moved up to Minnesota, where they were not exactly "welcomed with bloody hands to hospitable graves," but where the breeders of the home state gave them all the competition they wanted and then some. But even at that one grand championship went to faroff Kentucky and the other to Missouri.

White Hall Marshall fought his way to another championship, winning in the aged class over the beautiful white Dapton Favorite, which wants only some filling of the bottom line to give pause to nearly any competitor.

Memory does not recall such unambiguous favor for a cow denied as was freely manifested for the beautiful roan three-year-old Dorothea II, which was left down in third position. She was the only one fit to the minute in the ring. The others had dipped too often in the meal tub or else had been too long divorced from it. She stands a trifle from the ground, and the judge is notably fond of the low, broad eyes and hence got her wrong in mind. Much of the massiveness inheres in his first choice, the roan Woodhill May Blossom II, but there is a lack of finish at both ends and a singularly ungainly top line against her.

The company was the red Marquette, which is such a perfection of Shorthorn type that, soft as her flesh is, we should not have hesitated at ranking her next to the top.

It need not be recalled that comment is current to the effect that the fat show bulls are "no account"; that they cannot sire calves and are so "burned out" that they are useless and of no value as stock getters. Not a few people of limited observation and cross-eyed reasoning are wont to decant eloquently to this effect. Among the fourteen clinking good heifer calves in this exhibit five out of the six places (all of them but the fifth place) fell to calves sired by that very fat bull Princeps IV, many times champion.

At the Big Buckeye.

The "Ohio Idea" is one of education—to teach, to show, to illustrate by graphic example. At Columbus there is this year, as is usual, graphic example of how best to do the best things. Thus nearly Joseph E. Wing sums up in the Breeder's Gazette, Chicago, his impression of the big Buckeye fair, but he adds, among other remarks:

The defect in the management of this fair was one so familiar that men have forgotten to see it any more, the failure to mark or catalogue animals so that any intelligent study of them could be made. Ohio is no worse than in this respect than some other states. The animal, wandering in the horse barn searching for a particular animal, overheard this from a man who, with his wife, was seeking to learn something: "I can't tell anything about them. There is no one around to tell a man anything." Turning to the writer, he asked, "I want to see the Belgians and to compare them with the Percherons, and I wish to find one Percheron especially."

It is hardly as bad in the cattle barns. If not catalogues, why not simple, plain, but good sized cards announcing names of owners, name of animal, breed and age? Would not more men go to fairs if they could really study the animals with any comfort or understanding?

In Iowa.

The Shorthorn show at the Iowa state fair has been declared to be the best ever seen on American soil. Professor Curtis, dean of the Iowa state college, is quoted by an exchange as saying that it probably has never been surpassed even in England, the home of the Shorthorns. Exhibitors from Kansas, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Missouri, Ohio and Iowa warmly contested the ribbons. A new class, Iowa Specials, was crowded. This was for Iowa bred stuff only.

Reviving a Tired Honeybee.

The honeybee is proverbially industrious. When everything goes well with it no form of animal life has more vigor, works more zealously nor defends its home more bravely. But the bee soon loses its activity when separated from its home so that it cannot return, as, for example, when it gets into a room and fails to find its way out. Cold rain or lack of food also soon puts it into a feeble or exhausted condition, making it appear as if it were discouraged. But rarely all its usual activity may be restored by a little sugar of honey.—St. Nicholas.

MAKING UP FOR THE SHOW RING.

of course made with two threads (a shuttle and spoon, merely the old hook and eye idea. Make a circle of sixteen stitches with seven loops (two and a loop) until you have the seven loops and sixteen stitches as a start. Draw it up, then make two and a loop until you have seven loops and fourteen stitches on the spool thread, always starting and ending with two stitches. You will see that the outside edges form little scallops and the inside designs or circles (there are seven). Very coarse thread (No. 8 or 12 sewing cotton) is most effective, and in the present instance ceron cotton was used. When the collar is the proper size (length, sew neatly to a narrow band, and you have an exceedingly smart neck fixing. Cut

A TATTING COLLAR.

The In and Out of Simple Kind of Work.

The pretty collar illustrated is of tating, which requires very little description, but to really see the pattern well one must turn the picture around. It can be worn as a turnover or as a regular turndown collar, open in front, with a dainty lace bow for a necktie. Any one at all familiar with tating will see at a glance how it is made, but those who do not know how to draw it up had better not try it. It is

The Fatal Breath.

"Tray attention now," said the schoolmaster, addressing his class during the geography lesson. "The population of China is so great that two Chinamen die every time we take a breath."

This information made a deep impression on the juvenile scholars, and the master was particularly struck with the uncomfortable appearance of one small
